If you get two Darkness cards

You feel the power spread through you, and the voice of the Masked Shadow echoes in your head. "Revel in your strength. We can be strong, together. We don't have to accept the world as it is. We can make a better world, without the tragedy and undeserved pain of this one."

If you form three social links

You feel torn, uncertain. It seems hard to explain the Masked Shadow to your friends, but do you really want to fight them for it? If only there was some other way... But no matter how creative your friends are, they're not going to be able to get your brother back.

If your Empathy reaches 4

Some little doubts keep surfacing. You feel like you can trust the Masked Shadow, but there's lots it hasn't said. It might give you what you want, but its never promised that it wouldn't use its power, the power you helped it get, to hurt or kill others. And those people probably have people that love them, too, just as you loved your brother.
